Why are Python programmers so good at solving relationship problems?

Because they're used to dealing with commitment issues that arise from a single improper space.

Why did the Python programmer get kicked out of the Garden of Eden?

...Because he was the one who implemented the snake.

Why was the Python developer kicked out of the Garden of Eden?

Because he offered Eve an apple, but it was a `tuple`.

Of course! Here are a couple, from classic to a bit more nerdy:

The Classic:

Why do Python programmers wear glasses?
\
... Because they can't C#.

For the Programmers:

A Python object is in a therapy session.

The therapist asks, "So, what brings you in today?"

The object sighs, "I just feel so empty. I have no sense of `self`."
